How to access hospice services

Access to most hospice services is by referral from your GP or other healthcare professional. The appropriate hospice team will then arrange an assessment appointment with you to identify your needs and how we can best help you and your family. Hospice care is non-denominational and is provided free of charge. It is available to patients over 16 years of age throughout Ayrshire and Arran with the exception of our family care service which can be accessed by people of all ages.

There are three services that you can arrange to attend without a referral from a healthcare professional. They are our Family Care Service, Simply for You and Headwayr. Attendance at these services can be arranged by contacting the hospice on 01292 269200.

Support the Ayrshire Hospice

We are a registered charity, largely dependent on voluntary donations. Our patients and their families are at the very centre of all that we do and the care that we give them is provided free of charge. This requires extensive ongoing fundraising support, as well as support from NHS Ayrshire & Arran. It costs over £18,900 per day to run our hospice services and we need to raise £4.5 Million a year from voluntary donations alone. This requires on-going commitment, energy and passion from the community – support we couldn’t do without. So why not....

The hospice team

Our wonderful team of over 180 employees and over 600 volunteers all work hard to make today matter. Feedback from patients and families tells us it’s their warmth and compassion that sets us apart. From our nurses, doctors, physiotherapists and social workers to our chaplain, occupational therapist, catering, support and education teams, our employed and voluntary staff always go the extra mile.

The support we provide to our patients and their families is shaped by our multi-disciplinary team, after an initial meeting and assessment. This may range from a short term advisory role to ongoing support or end of life care.

Our trained voluntary staff make an extremely positive contribution to hospice life. Volunteering positively enhances the hospice - broadening the range of skills and experience of our teams, establishing connections with our community, and allowing everyone to have more quality time to give.

At the hospice we know that talking about death doesn’t bring death closer. It just helps people make the most of the time that they have. Our team work alongside patients, helping them to stay in control, support their families and prepare for the future.

In-patient unit

Our in-patient unit has the facility to provide care for 20 patients in a mix of single and shared rooms. We also provide 24 hour telephone advice to patients and health professionals. Patients can be admitted for symptom management, short term acute intervention, end of life care, multi-disciplinary assessment or planned respite.

We offer a relaxed homely environment where patients, family and friends can spend quality time together. Included in the facilities are comfortable lounge areas, a quiet room, and an overnight stay area. There are extensive gardens where all our patients can spend time enjoying being outside.

Solas - community and day services

Solas is the name we give to community and day services at the hospice. It means “a place of light, a place of solace, a place of comfort” – exactly what we offer. Solas provides physical, practical, emotional and spiritual support to patients with a life-limiting illness through a wide range of services that are tailored to the individual needs of our patients.

Care is provided in a variety of places – at home, in the community or in our day services unit offering a unique and safe place for our patients to relax and be themselves. Solas care is holistic: from clinical assessment and advice, to therapy groups and peer support our patients benefit in many different ways.

Solas also recognise the importance of family members and carers to our patients. We offer a range of services that will allow carers time-out and peace of mind, as well as practical and emotional support.
